England's Green Space Gap Report -Friends of the Earth

Our analysis reveals a marked disparity in access to green space and particularly a strong correlation between green space deprivation and ethnicity.

The stand-out finding is that if you are a person of black, Asian or minority ethnic (BAME) origin you are more than twice as likely as a white person to live in areas in England that are most deprived of green space. 42% of people of BAME backgrounds live in England's most green space-deprived neighbourhoods, compared to 20% of white people.

United For Warmer Homes Campaign

Friends of the Earth have launched a new long-term campaign - United for Warmer Homes. Why? Because the energy crisis has made one thing clear: our housing stock and energy systems are broken. Without rapid, meaningful action, we'll face continuous hardship. That's why United for Warm Homes is calling for:

1. Urgent additional financial support to keep people warm.
2. A nationwide insulation programme.
3. Permanent fixes to our failed energy system.

Croydon Climate Action (in partnership with Croydon Community Energy) wants to be a local campaigning hub and bring communities together to help support one another with the impacts of soaring energy costs and demand the right to a warm home.

We can't run this campaign without volunteers.
